Who Is the Holy Spirit? by Henry W. Frost, D.D.

Dr. Frost has earned a wide reading for his devotional and doctrinal writings in the religious press and in book form. The theme of this volume is perennially interesting to true believers, so vital, so essential to Christian progress. With close reasoning, much Scripture, simple language, basic truth is presented. The author's own evaluation is: "If we should be asked, as touching our earthly experience, which part of our study, from a practical standpoint, is the most important, we should say that it is that which refers to the filling of the Spirit. This portion is nothing less than infinitely important, because it brings us into that condition which makes us understand God's Word, enables us to perceive the person and character of Christ, gives us ability to live like Him, grants us the power to proclaim to men redeeming and sanctifying truth, and thus prepares us for infinite service and joy in heaven."

124 pages. 7½ x 5 inches. Fleming H. Revell Company, New York. $1.25. W.M.R.

The Ethics of Judaism, by Maxwell Silver, D.D.

The author of this purely philosophical volume is a learned Jew who treats his subject "from the aspect of duty," quoting extensively from the Hebrew writers, including some in the Old Testament, and adding many pages of reference notes and a Bibliography of forty titles. He appears to take essentially the Unitarian position, accepting the documentary theories of higher criticism, and calls Abraham the traditional head of the Jewish race.

384 pages. 8x5 inches. Bloch Publishing Company, New York. $2.50. H.E.S.

Little Letters to God, by Margaret E. Sangster.

The writer adopts the style of a child's praying or talking to God. In a charming manner and with beautiful expression she brings to one's mind memories which are both delightful and sad to recall. The book lacks theological exactness in certain places, which does not amount to heresy and which is due no doubt to the somewhat poetical character of her style. The thoughts contained in the many poems found in the book are refreshingly personal.

149 pages. 8½ x 5½ inches. Round Table Press, New York. $1.50. A.F.B.
